

NOTRE DAME AND THE “HUMAN CHAIN”

Eight hours of fire have ruined eight centuries of history, however not all is lost at Notre Dame de París. Despite the rapid spread of the flames, many works of art could be saved thanks to the formation of a “human chain” consisting of firemen, security agents, the archiepiscopal team and technicians of the French Ministry of Culture, so the words of the mayor of Paris, Anne Hidalgo. The initiative culminated with the donation of 800 million euros for the reconstruction of the cathedral by the great fortunes of the country.

Given the success that the “human chain” achieved, the EU has decided to apply the same procedure to save migrants from drowning in the Mediterranean Sea.
