

We only have ourselves. Are you a government or are you thieves? You have robbed us so much that we have even lost our fear. If you break our lives, we will break your shop windows. If we burn, you will burn too. Military and police who approach indigenous territories will be held and subject to indigenous justice. We will throw the government away with the garbage. Until living is worth it. The streets will always be ours. Barricades are self defense. Let's put on the yellow vests: we leave the ship. Before we die, we will live. And the planet is on fire...
