The elderly, abandoned in their residences, die parsimoniously. They are the waves of the sea, unloaded from guilt, that sink into the sand. We, who cannot close their eyes, close ours.

scream let's scream until the dead wake up